Rain - Liquid Sunshine - Washington's most notorious natural element. But we Washingtonians know and love the sound of the rain on the roof or on an umbrella - how it can feel with a cozy fire going and a warm cup of tea in hand. Judith Avinger put it all down in her song.

CHORUS Dm

Rain-y day, oh rain-y day, must be our rain-y day.

Rain-y day, oh rain-y day, Let's make this our rainy day.

1. Woke up this morning, heard the sound of the rain a coming down, And I said, "Know what I'll do—

Spend the day in bed with you."

Detailed description: The musical score is written on a single staff in treble clef with a key signature of one flat (Bb) and a common time signature (C). The melody is simple and melodic. Chords are indicated by letters above the staff: Dm, Bb, and Dm. The lyrics are written in a cursive, handwritten style below the notes. The first line is labeled 'CHORUS' and has a 'Dm' chord above it. The second line also has a 'Dm' chord above it. The first verse starts with a 'Dm' chord above the first note and a 'Bb' chord above the second note. The second line of the first verse has a 'Bb' chord above the first note and a 'Dm' chord above the second note. The piece ends with a double bar line.

Make the fire, start the tea,
Come and lie here beside me.
Hear the morning birds that call,
Watch the raindrops as they fall. CHORUS

Third measure - "While the world is silver grey."

Oh, how lucky can we get,
See the leaves all shiny wet,
And the berries glowing red,
Through the window by our bed. CHORUS
